ABSTRACT

A communication control system is provided that performs industrial communications satisfying а request for applications and a request for open protocol communications To this end, in the invention, a at the same time. high-priority communication section performing critical communications to provide real time property and reliability, low-priority communication section performing and a communications based on an open standard protocol coexist in a same communication station.

5

10